General comments: Greater flexibility toward existing employment sites is required in order to retain local businesses that are valuable to the economic success of the area. Rather than adopting a policy which seeks to retain employment sites in their current use, greater emphasis should be placed upon retention of jobs within the local area. This demands a greater degree of flexibility inland use planning terms

General comments:	Therefore in relation to Issue EG1 we agree with options A and B. We also suggest that there is a need to consider fully integrated mixed uses at the urban extensions and the area to the East of Wimborne could provide some employment use but more importantly is well related to existing employment facilities within the area.

Response:
General comments:	The King Sturge Employment Report of September 2005, commissioned by the Regional Assembly, promotes the need to plan for a choice and range of sites of different sizes in any given area. The report found that the projections and forecasts of growth in particular for future employment land do not allow for a choice of sites. It states for example 'With the changing pattern of inward investment (both foreign and domestic) and the continued growth of existing businesses both at a local and regional level, as well as the growth of new businesses on a smaller scale there is a need for a shift of emphasis towards a larger number of smaller sites to be provided, to offer greater flexibility and choice to new and expanding businesses'. The report goes on to state 'Projections and forecasts of future employment land requirements do not allow for a choice of sites. Traditionally a margin of 50% above anticipated development requirements is allowed in order to allow the market to operate smoothly, with occupiers and developers able to meet their particular requirements. To provide for choice this suggests authorities should take the analysis of demand and increase it by 50% in allocating sufficient employment land.' Clearly the emphasis of the report supports an extension to the Ferndown Industrial Estate.

The best way to secure sustainable economic growth is to identify the successful employment sites and to expand upon them. Ebblake has no room for further extension, part of the land having been re-allocated for housing. There is a proposal to develop west of the Ferndown Industrial Estate (up to 20 hectares). Woolsbridge has the ability to expand without needing any new infrastructure, the land is held by an owner willing to deliver employment development on the site.

Woolsbridge can:

- Promote a strong stable, productive, innovative and competitive economy
- Promote economic development that is compatible with environmental objectives and reduces the need to travel
- Meet the requirements of commerce and industry by providing a variety of sites well served by appropriate infrastructure to meet diverse business requirements

The Options Paper states that:-

- There is a shortage of employment land available in the short to medium term and Woolsbridge could satisfy that shortage. It could be made available now.
- Employment land supplies concentrated at Bournemouth International Airport and the ability to bring this land forward is constrained by significant infrastructure and environmental issues - no such constraints affect Woolsbridge
- The majority of supply is within the general industrial/business area market segment which constrains the range of business activity which can be attracted. The owners of the Woolsbridge Industrial Estate are happy to be flexible over the range of business activities which can take place within the expanded site.
- The majority of employment in Christchurch and East Dorset is low pay and low skill- it is noted elsewhere that this mainly applies to parts of Christchurch which are reliant upon catering and tourism.

You state that under the heading 'Benefits and Costs' that protecting existing employment sites helps to maintain existing supply of land and premises. We do not consider that all existing employment sites should be protected from other forms of development, regardless of location and economic considerations. It is preferable to allocate sites which are attractive for modern business.

Response:

General comments: Clearly in the AONB there is a very strong influence of agriculture on the economy, Theme 9. Unlike the rest of the nation the agricultural contribution to employment is in the order of 8% rather than the more widely nationally quoted less than 3% level. We do, however, have significant concerns about the interpretation of farm diversification. Inherent in the concept seems to be a link with farming in an active and true sense. The letting out of land and farm buildings for things that are not connected with agriculture or horticulture seems to be stretching the concept of diversification rather too far. Within the AONB we are seeing situations where farm buildings are being used as cheap storage for warehousing and distribution activities that do not relate to local products or products from local agriculture or horticulture. Such operations should, of course, be located on industrial estates/business parks.

Option: GENERAL Organisation: South West of England Regional Development Agency

Response:

General comments: The South West RDA supports the aspiration under theme 9 of the Issues and Options to achieve more sustainable economic growth through the Core Strategy. The RES Spatial Annex reinforces the finding that the economic structure of SE Dorset relies on low GVA sectors and as such needs to continue to develop its knowledge economy. The Agency considers that achieving stronger productivity performance is essential to create a foundation for future growth that is sustainable. As such, investment in new technologies, improved infrastructure (including sites and premises), skills and innovative processes, combined with improved resource efficiency will create the conditions for a more resilient and competitive economy in the long term.

Employment Land
The South West RDA is closely involved with ongoing sub-regional employment sites and premises work in Dorset. The emerging Dorset Workspace Strategy will provide a robust evidence base relating to demand- and supply-side issues over the period to 2026. The findings of this work, alongside the local Employment Land Reviews, will need to inform later stages of the Core Strategy. Key Issue EG2 asks about the importance of protecting employment sites given the pressures of competing uses (such as residential) for land. The wealth of evidence at regional and sub-regional level³ indicates that there is a considerable shortage of available and deliverable employment space in SE Dorset which is forecast to continue over time. Given this context, it will be vital to the achievement of successful and competitive businesses that quality existing employment sites and premises are protected. Where older employment sites/premises are assessed as no longer attractive to the market, we would suggest that a sequential approach to reuse should be adopted, similar to that recommended by the Agency and endorsed by the RSS EiP Panel under proposed new policy ES34.

Identification of new sites for employment uses should focus on maintaining a flexible, deliverable, sustainable and high quality supply of sites to support the shift to productivity-led growth in the sub-region. This should include consideration of new and innovative types of workspace such as live/work and incubator units to support small and micro-businesses. The designation of area of search Q to deliver 20 hectares of employment land is supported. Research for the Agency³ indicates that all of the areas of search are likely to be required to play a role in addressing the considerable shortfall in employment land supply in the conurbation. It is therefore considered that all of the areas of search should deliver mixed use development including an element of quality employment space provision to meet market demand.

'Non-B' Employment
The Issues and Options paper rightly highlights the forecast growth in employment in 'non-B' sectors. Early indications from the Workspace Strategy suggest that around 80% of new jobs created in Dorset between 2006 and 2026 could potentially fall outside of the traditional 'B' use class industries (broadly: office/ industrial/ warehousing). In particular, the 'non-B' sectors of education, health, retail, hotels/catering and construction are forecast to grow in employment terms. The clear steer from draft PPS4 and the RSS EiP Panel Report is that a "whole economy" approach must be taken to planning for future jobs. It will therefore be critical that the Core Strategy addresses the land use and other infrastructure requirements of this growth in 'non-B' jobs. A key consideration in this analysis should be the relative 'value' of the new non-B jobs to the region's economy and how the Core Strategy can help to support the growth of the more productive parts of the non-B industries.

General comments: P.41 Penultimate paragraph: It is important to recognise that this supply of 60 to 70ha of employment land at the airport is constrained and as such not (all) 'available'. It is good that you recognise this on p. 42 second bullet under evidence and then further in the airport theme. However, before you can rely on it as the central plank of your employment strategy you will need to establish time-scales and what needs to be done in order to bring land at the airport forward and the realism of the enabling measures being implemented etc. You will also need to bear in mind the emerging RSS, as the draft RSS/Panel report indicates that this should be for airport related uses only.
P. 42 2nd paragraph left-hand column: typo: The Panel report recommends that a target 110ha of additional land should be provided for employment.
2nd paragraph right-hand column: Are the ELRs presumably also assessing the suitability and quality of employment land and premises and what's needed? What locational issues are emerging from these? How is this influencing your spatial strategy? (see also above).
Final bullet, right-hand column: These should only be released for housing if they are no longer suitable for employment.
Issue EG2: You need to take account of the direction set by national guidance (i.e.PPG4 and consultation draft PPS 4) as well comply with the final RSS. Altogether this would indicate that some of the options identified in response to this issue are in conflict with national policy/the regional plan and are as such 'false options'.

General comments:	Where possible and where they are viable existing employment uses should be protected in the Wimborne area. This has to be placed in the context of the need to ensure that travel to work patterns within SED can change over the period of the RSS to achieve more sustainable economic relationships between the various parts of the sub region. Wimborne has a strong employment base and with the amount of development to be located at the town it is important that as well as encouraging new higher value and skills employment that existing employment facilities are supported and maintained so that there is a range of sites and premises available for use by local firms.

General comments:	In assessing new employment opportunities these should be located within sustainable locations and careful consideration should be made to the potential impacts on the highway network. The Agency does not support independent centres of employment development that could encourage car journeys on the SRN; land use should be diverse in nature in line with the principles of spatial planning,

General comments:	Mixed use developments with a strong residential content have been proven to make more efficient use of such sites whilst being able to accommodate high quality sustainable developments that contribute successfully to the vitality and vibrancy of town centres. To adopt a rigid zoning approach will stifle creativity, limit expansion and lead to sterile areas lacking character and activity

General comments: The core strategy should promote the greater use of Bournemouth Airport as a centre of excellence for aviation and other forms of employment whilst encouraging greater flexibility towards the retention of existing employment sites, particularly where there are operational requirements that cannot be met on existing sites

General comments: Additional employment and service uses can be provided through the sensitive conversion of existing buildings. More flexibility to such uses would stimulate rural areas and provide jobs for people living in nearby communities

General comments:	Businesses must be provided with a choice of different sized sites in any given area, be it for inward investment or organic growth. As recognised in RSS background papers traditionally, a margin of 50% above anticipated development requirements is allowed in order to allow the market to operate smoothly. A lack of local employment site opportunities will exacerbate the problem of out commuting from the SE Dorset area to South Hampshire where provision is being made through the SE RSS for 2 million additional square metres of business base. This will encourage the unsustainable trend of people choosing to live in SE Dorset, due to the environmental qualities, but working outside the sub region where access, in particular in South Hampshire, to a larger range of quality jobs is apparent and will be more apparent over the plan period. Such a trend is leading to more car borne commuting patterns. In this context land to the east of the Ferndown Industrial Estate is available and deliverable and able to contribute to such a choice of sites within the broader area of search. Concentrating development at Blunts Farm will not achieve the aim of providing businesses with a choice. The draft RSS (as recommended to be modified at Panel Report 8.1.1 to 8.1.3 suggests that Local Authorities should be responsive to the needs of the economy. Without a choice of sites being identified the Local Authorities will limit their potential to be responsive, for example a heavy reliance on the airport employment allocation, or Blunts Farm, coming forward could lead to insufficient land being available in the short to medium term due to deliverability issues. This will ultimately have consequences for the delivery of the RSS and Regional Economic Strategy objectives. The LDF system was brought in to give local authorities the tools to enable revisions to policy to take place in a responsive and speedy fashion. Through annual monitoring a need to identify a suite of additional employment sites may come to light, the economic performance of the sub region could suffer should the Core Strategy limit the potential supply of a range of sites.

Response:
General comments: An objective of the Core Strategy should be to protect and enhance village facilities and services, and although larger cultural facilities may be better suited to being located in town centres future development of the villages could well include theatrical provision for community centres, a new arts centre or indeed amateur theatre attached to local pubs. This would enhance their viability and vitality and policies should be in place to promote and protect such objectives.

Option: GENERAL Organisation: Highways Agency
Response:
General comments: Whilst the development of the rural economy should be supported, the full transportation impacts of proposed diversification schemes should be fully assessed and remain as a key material consideration. As such, the Agency supports the principle of Option C in particular as it recognises the need for rural business units to be accessible by sustainable transport modes. However, development close to existing settlements may not always be the best solution given that some industries may be nearer to their workforce and customers in more purely rural areas.

Response:

General comments: General Comment - Consideration will need to be given to development within Source Protection Zones (SPZ). This will involve assessing the potential pollution risks associated with the type of development proposed. For example we would consider residential development as low risk however, heavy/contaminating industry would be classed as high risk and we may oppose this type of development being located within these areas.
